Before LINE DC opened in January 2018, the Washington, D.C., building was a century-old church.

LINE DC

Washington, D.C.

Housed in a 110-year-old church in Washington, D.C.'s historic Adams Morgan neighborhood, the newly opened LINE DC has been renovated to preserve the building's striking architectural features. The 60-foot vaulted ceilings, large copper entry doors, brass detailing, and neoclassical accents pay homage to the property's past. The LINE DC includes 220 rooms, a number of dining and drinking options from James

Beard-recognized chefs, and a rooftop terrace with sweeping views of the capital city's foremost landmarks. And a unique live podcast is broadcast from the hotel lobby. Helmed by Jack Inslee of Heritage Radio, LINE DC's Full Service Radio features programming that includes politics, art, food, comedy, and more, presented by over 30 local hosts. Guests are able to watch the live recordings and have the opportunity to participate.
